Description

A superb Art Nouveau vase with a rich chestnut tree motif by the Verrerie de Vallerysthal. This beautiful, richly decorated vase bears a lovely and very rare signature, featuring a multitude of glassworking techniques that attest to its quality and exceptional finesse. The botanical design is set against a burgundy-red background, acid-etched with touches of enamel and a beautiful iridescence in places, reminiscent of fluogravure. This illustrious glassworks produced pieces of the highest quality under the direction of and under contract with Désiré Christian. This high-caliber production continued despite Gallé's departure--he later opened his own kilns in Nancy... The photos speak for themselves... a museum-quality piece. In very good condition, nothing to complain about; even the gold
