Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Description

Eugène Galien-Laloue (1854-1941), under the pseudonym Léon Dupuy : "Banks of the Oise at Saint-Leu-d'Esserent," oil on canvas, 65 x 92 cm, mounted in a large, slightly worn gilded frame, 88 x 114 cm. Minor restoration from the past. Working under contract with art dealers, Galien-Laloue--who is better known for his gouache views of Paris--used numerous pseudonyms under which he produced landscapes and lively scenes with virtuosity and an "incredible" to satisfy his many admirers. Our painting, executed with great verve and in an exceptional format for the artist, is fortunately mounted on the back of the stretcher, which is rare. These banks of the Oise, lined with farms of typical architecture and bustling with barge traffic, frame tranquil waters beneath a nuanced
