Description

A large, disassemblable table with three drawers on the front, carved with rosettes and scallop shells. A thick, carved cord runs around the entire table. Beautiful geometric carving on the two side rails. Two lyre-shaped legs are connected by a crossbar, secured at its ends with dowels. The framed tabletop reveals traces of its original planing. A spectacular table that can serve as a ceremonial console or a desk. Spain, 18th century. The table can be disassembled for international shipping.
