Tall, floor-standing larchwood dresser from the Savoy region. It consists of two sections: - an upper section featuring three shelves of increasing height, equipped with grooves for displaying decorative or everyday tableware (such as earthenware or wooden pieces), - a lower section forming a sideboard, with three drawers (featuring wooden knob handles) and three doors (secured by wooden latches) opening onto a storage space with a shelf. This is a rustic piece in very good condition, showing signs of wear and boasting a beautiful, original light-colored patina. Pegged furniture and mortise-and-tenon joinery (drawers, etc.). It bears the hot-stamped mark "F-S" on the right side. Tableware sold separately.
