Description

Hippolyte Lety - View of Vienne, Isère Oil on canvas depicting a luminous view of Vienne from the banks of the Rhône. The city spreads harmoniously across the hills, dominated on the left by the ruins of the Château de la Bâtie, while the light-colored facades and pink-hued rooftops stretch along the river. Here, Hippolyte Lety sensitively captures the atmosphere of this city in the Dauphiné region. His brushwork, free and spontaneous, brings the architecture and riverbanks to life with small splashes of color, in a delicate palette of blues, ochres, pinks, and greens. The wide-open sky and the calm waters of the Rhône lend the entire scene a beautiful sense of light and depth. A work full of charm, characteristic of the landscape painting of Hippolyte Lety, who was particularly attached to
