Description

Officer's saber from the 8th Infantry Regiment, Directoire/Consulate period, 18th century. Checkered wooden grip and German-style brass mountings. Single-pronged guard with a central medallion featuring a figure's head. The pommel of a long-tailed hussar saber is chiseled with a garland of leaves and line work, with a riveted button. The guard arm is at a right angle, and the crossguard features a horizontal beaded panel depicting 1 shield, 1 saber, and 1 musket, as well as the number 8. Curved blade with a flat back and hollow edges, engraved one-third of the way up and signed at the heel with a cluster of grapes and the monogram "N & K." Black leather scabbard with two cut-out brass fittings, decorated with line engraving. A chip on the pommel and damage at the junction of the
