Description

A finely carved boxwood netsuke depicting an iconic figure from Japanese folklore and mythology, recognizable by his distinctive hat. (one of the 7 gods of happiness). The figure is depicted standing, with hat of a sage, clad in a loose-fitting robe with deeply pleated folds, holding a staff in a serene pose and smiling broadly. It features beautiful modeling of face with a striking smile, as well as the drapery, all finished in a warm, antique patina, reflecting a long history of use, in its original, untouched but worn condition. On back, the "himotoshi" are widely pierced; there is an old scar on holes through which the cord passes, sign of long-term use. 8.5 cm x 4 cm.
