Description

Large 19th-century dining table made of oak and cherry wood, from the Normandy region. The tabletop is made of solid oak and consists of five planks that have warped slightly over time due to their great length, a testament to the table's authenticity. The table rests on four tapered cherry wood legs. The clearance under the table is 60 cm, providing ample legroom. A matching bench can be added for an additional EUR300 (only one available).
