Description

An elegant set of four DKR (Dining Height K-Wire Rod Base) chairs designed by Charles & Ray Eames, icons of 20th-century American design. Welded steel wire frame with a black finish, resting on a base of metal rods. The airy design and perfect mastery of proportions exemplify the Eameses' innovative work, making this model one of the great classics of furniture design. This set has been authenticated and presented for public auction by an auctioneer, guaranteeing its attribution to Charles & Ray Eames. The four chairs are preserved in excellent original condition, with a slight patina of wear consistent with their age, and no structural damage. This iconic model is equally at home around a dining table as it is in a contemporary interior, a gallery, or a professional
