Description

Oil on canvas mounted on panel, 19th-century work in the style of the 17th-century Dutch school, depicting a lavish bouquet of flowers in a transparent vase, with a peeled lemon at the base of the vase. (The peeled lemon in 17th-century Dutch still lifes embodies the duality of life. A symbol of wealth and vanity, its spiral peel represents the passage of time, while its highly acidic flesh serves as a reminder that earthly pleasures, however alluring they may seem, are bitter once consumed.)
