Description

Stained-glass wall sconce, Poliarte, 1960s
Elegant wall sconce created by Poliarte in the 1960s. The piece features an abstract and dynamic structure composed of numerous elements of blown, colored Murano glass: transparent and amber-colored bars intertwine in a play of volumes and transparencies, creating a luminous and sculptural effect. The design is quintessentially 1960s, with strong modernist influences and an aesthetic reminiscent of the artistic experiments of that period. Perfect both as a functional lighting fixture and as a true work of wall art. A rare and refined example of Italian glass design from the golden age.
