Description

A tapestry from the Royal Manufactory of Aubusson, woven in the 18th century, depicting two elegantly dressed children engaged in rural play: a seesaw, and the young girl playing the tambourine. The scene is inspired by the painting "La Bascule" by Florentin Damoiselet (1644-1690). The tapestry has been restored and relined in our specialized workshops to ensure its longevity, and is sold ready for installation.
