

17th-century Carved Wooden Panel

540 EUR

Period : 17th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Solid wood

Length : 50 cm

Width : 28,5

Depth : 3,5 cm

Description

An oak panel with high relief depicting the opening scene of a bacchanal. A young woman with a bare body appears to be floating on the waves. She is surrounded by two tritons who have come to seduce her. One carries a basket of fruit, while the other plays the aulos. This is likely the central panel of a chest. The reverse side of the panel was ironed to make it as smooth as possible, so as not to risk damaging the objects that would be "stowed" inside the chest.

Dealer

Naturellement Curieux

Curiosités, haute époque, statuaire

Mobile : 0632182040

19 allée des vignes

Saint-Avertin 37550