Description

Saint Gabriel - Carved Wood Sculpture, 16th century A beautiful wood sculpture depicting the archangel Saint Gabriel, portrayed standing in a pose full of grace and serenity. The face with its delicate features, the wavy hair, and the elegant drapery reflect the craftsmanship of a religious sculpture workshop from the Baroque period. The work retains a beautiful patina of age as well as traces of its original polychromy--now largely faded--which reinforce its authenticity. The visible wear, cracks, and missing sections are consistent with its age and bear witness to several centuries of history. Likely originating from an altarpiece or a liturgical ensemble, this archangel is distinguished by the gentleness of his expression and the quality of his craftsmanship. An authentic work, imbued with spirituality and
