Description

A 19th-century Delftware lamp in the shape of a baluster bottle with beveled sides, in the Louis XIV style. It is decorated with scenes of lakeside life featuring boats and romantic scenes set within cartouches framed by interlacing patterns, flowers, and foliage. It is topped with a pleated, lined white fabric lampshade. Good condition; electrical wiring has been redone; previously had a small, barely visible hole drilled in the bottom and on one side. Shipping cost to mainland France: EUR20; for other destinations, please contact us for an accurate shipping quote.
