Description

Devotional Painting Depicting the Virgin in Prayer - Oil on Canvas - 17th century A refined devotional oil painting on canvas depicting the Virgin Mary in prayer, shown in a half-length portrait with her head bowed, her hands clasped, and her gaze focused in an intense expression of meditation. The golden halo and the delicate rendering of the face lend the work a profound sense of spirituality and contemplation. The execution draws on the Italian Renaissance and Baroque painting traditions, featuring a simple yet highly effective composition characterized by soft chiaroscuro and a palette of warm, harmonious tones. The figure stands out against a dark background that highlights the softness of her features and the luminosity of her complexion. The painting is set within a simple oval gilded wooden frame from the early 1900s, perfectly in keeping with the devotional character of the work. Condition: The painting has been re-stretched and retouched in some areas. The canvas exhibits widespread superficial craquelure, consistent with the painting's age, as well as slight signs of aging and wear. Please examine the photographs carefully, as they are an integral part of the description. Period: 17th century. Dimensions: 74 x 63 cm - canvas 61.5 x 51.5 cm School: Italian, devotional tradition. A work of great charm and intense spirituality, ideal for collectors of sacred art, antique dealers, or to enhance a classical setting with a painting rich in history and devotion.
