Description

A rare and authentic Chinese ceremonial horse harness breastplate dating from the 19th century, crafted from leather, fabric, and finely engraved metal fittings. The set is adorned with chiseled metal plates featuring a rich decoration of traditional Chinese characters and motifs, arranged on the various fasteners as well as on the central diamond-shaped plate. These ornaments attest to the high-quality craftsmanship characteristic of the prestigious harnesses used in China during the 19th century. The reverse retains its original construction with its antique textiles and hand-stitched seams. The set displays a beautiful patina of age, with signs of wear consistent with its age, without compromising its authentic character. This type of harness was intended for ceremonial or parade horses and
