Description

Velvet fragment, Genoa velvet style - Late 19th / Early 20th century A delightful piece of patterned velvet, in the style of the prestigious Genoese velvets, featuring an elegant design of scrolls, acanthus leaves, and palmettes inspired by the Baroque. The velvet, in a superb grayish blue on a slightly satiny champagne background, offers a deep and generous texture that beautifully captures the light and highlights the richness of the design. The quality of the weave and the softness of the velvet attest to refined craftsmanship intended for the finest interior designs. Preserved in excellent condition, this fragment is a decorative piece of great charm. It will naturally find its place in a frame, on a wall panel, or can be transformed into an exceptional cushion or incorporated into a high-end interior
