cm.Contemporary edition by the artist. This is one of his major works, created in 1887Condition: The decoration remains very fresh, and its finesse is exceptional. The two-tone wickerwork on the handle is original; there is some reinforcement on the lid tab, as well as a repair on the base of the pitcher. The edge of the display stand shows localized reinforcement and a small chip.Bibliography: Jean-Christophe

Boucaud: "Jules Brateau, 1844-1923Generally speaking, any other marks featuring a crowned rose and various other inscriptions indicate a posthumous edition from 1923 by the firm GRAS and ETIENNE, which used Brateau's molds until the 1960s. It is worth noting the play on sound intended by the artist between the depiction of his "gallows" countermark and his initials
