Description

"Bathers on the Beach" by Fernand Lantoine (1876-1956) illustrates Fernand Lantoine's enduring interest in seascapes and scenes of leisure by the sea. Born in Antwerp, the painter trained at the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in his hometown before continuing his studies in Paris. His work, influenced by Impressionism and Luminism, is distinguished by a loose brushstroke and a particular attention to the effects of light. In this composition, the bathers, vividly sketched, blend harmoniously into the coastal landscape, where the rocks, the sea, and the sky are rendered with a luminous palette and expressive brushwork. The piece as a whole captures the summer atmosphere and the spontaneity of a moment of relaxation by the water. Provenance: collection in France Painting dimensions: 35 x 40
