Important Aubusson tapestry - Bakery Scene - Manufacture d'Aubusson, 18th century. Elegant tapestry from the Aubusson Manufactory of the 18th century, depicting a charming bakery scene in a pastoral landscape. Beneath a majestic tree, three figures are busy around a traditional bread oven: one is placing loaves into the oven with a long peel, another is bringing a bundle of wood to fuel the fire, while a young assistant prepares the utensils. This composition, imbued with gentleness and naturalness, illustrates the 18th-century taste for idealized scenes of everyday life. The design is enhanced by a rich border featuring floral garlands and striped bands, typical of Aubusson productions from this period. The harmonious palette of blues, greens, and ivory tones, along with the finesse of the weaving, attest to the craftsmanship of the Creuse workshops, whose reputation has endured through the centuries. This decorative piece is an excellent choice for a classic or contemporary interior, bringing charm, authenticity, and elegance. Tapestries depicting 18th-century trades and genre scenes are particularly sought after for their artistic quality and heritage value. Aubusson Manufactory, 18th century. Subject: Bakery scene. Wool and silk tapestry (to be confirmed by expert appraisal). Beautiful original floral border. A distinctive decorative piece, ideal for connoisseurs of antique tapestries and 18th-century French art.
