Description

Artist : Gashghai tribes Antique Gabbeh rug from the early 20th century, circa 1920-1940. It measures 129 cm wide by 247 cm long. In Farsi--one of the Persian languages--"Gabbeh" means "raw, natural, whole," and refers to a rug characterized by a coarse and rather primitive pattern. They are most often knotted by the Gashghai nomads of Fars Province, in southwestern Iran. These rugs are likely the most famous hand-knotted nomadic rugs from Iran, as they are very fashionable today. They are made of hand-spun wool, both for the pile and the warp, and the yarn is dyed with vegetable dyes. These rugs are much thicker than other Persian rugs, sometimes reaching up to 2.5 cm in thickness with long pile. The rug's pattern is often simple, featuring only a few decorative motifs--mostly
