Description

Circa 1930-1950 India - Gujarat Very long piece of fabric, likely a sari that could be used for decoration, dating from the second third of the 20th century. Wide width with a satin background, woven from silk and cotton, extremely fluid and heavy, ideal for draping. Very fine yellow, green, and pink stripes on an Indian pink background. Two green side borders, resulting in a width of approximately 88 cm on the loom. On the back, a label from the Indian manufacturer (illegible). No defects to note. Beautiful color and condition. A rare piece. Dimensions: Approximately 500 cm x 88 cm
