Description

An 18th-century Louis XVI-style chest of drawers. It features two large drawers on the front. It is veneered in rosewood and amaranth with rich geometric marquetry decoration consisting of cubes and framing bands, resting on four tapered legs. It is topped with an antique red breccia marble slab, perfectly complementing the quality of the veneer. The drawers are joined with antique dovetail joints and showcase fine 18th-century craftsmanship. The beautifully crafted bronze hardware elegantly accentuates the front. This small chest of drawers, with its harmonious proportions, will easily find a place in a bedroom, entryway, or living room. It features a beautiful patina and remains in good condition despite some minor restorations consistent with its age. Shipping within
