Description

Survey of the facade of one of the notable buildings in the town of Saint-Geniez-d'Olt, the Couret du Terrail House, the former residence of a wealthy 16th-century cloth merchant, which was renovated in the late 18th century by Marie-Thérèse Couret du Terrail to serve as a religious community and has since served as the town hall. The drawing is executed in pen and ink over a pencil underdrawing and is glued directly onto its mounting board. Traces of glue are unfortunately visible. It is set in a carved walnut frame with gilded beading; woodworm holes are present. Without the frame, the drawing measures 29 x 33.2 cm.
