Description

A very beautiful wall-mounted bronze Christ figure with its original dark patina, an Auvergne piece from the late Middle Ages (15th century). A piece of fine quality in both casting and chiseling. Expressive face framed by wavy hair and a crown. Torso with distinctly stylized ribs. Drapery: Perizonium--short, tied at the hip, with supple, well-defined folds. Mounting: a square-headed nail used for attachment is broken at the back (hands and feet simulating nails); a hole at the hem of the perizonium was likely repaired. Condition: Superb state of preservation with a beautiful, well-preserved antique patina.
