Description

An elegant 17th-century Italian mirror, featuring a remarkable blackened wood frame with richly molded decoration. The succession of finely carved profiles, fluting, and moldings attests to particularly meticulous craftsmanship and exceptional skill. The simplicity of its decoration, combined with the depth of the blackened wood, highlights the architecture of the molding and gives the piece a presence that is both refined and timeless. The mirror retains its original mercury glass, offering the patina so sought after by collectors, with its slight imperfections and characteristic shimmer that fully contribute to the piece's charm and authenticity. A beautiful collector's mirror, as decorative as it is elegant, that fits equally well in both classic and contemporary interiors.
