Description

A magnificent kilim from Bergama, Turkey. Traditionally woven using wool on wool. Very beautiful weave--fine and even. The piece is supple and lightweight. The wool is ultra-soft and silky, hand-spun. Sublime plant-based dyes... a deep, dark, and intense blue--almost abyssal--against which a range of colors unfolds: orange, yellow, and purple, as well as a brick red and an emerald green, which is rare and highly sought after by collectors. There is also a striking presence of white, which gives structure to the whole, creating a strong contrast and highlighting each color. Here, there is no rigidity in the geometric details: the elements are freely arranged in their places, like notes on a musical score, and compose their own visual harmony. The piece dates from the
