Description

An elegant solid oak two-part cabinet from the 18th century, originating from Northern France, featuring beautiful proportions and remarkable craftsmanship. The upper section is enclosed by two elegant glazed doors with fine glazing bars, offering a clear view of three interior shelves finished with an antique grey patina--perfect for showcasing earthenware, porcelain, or collectibles. The lower section consists of two richly molded doors opening onto a spacious storage area fitted with a shelf. The paneled sides further highlight the piece's high-quality construction. Its shaped cornice, gently curved uprights, original hardware, and beautiful natural oak patina embody the charm of 18th-century furniture. Whether used as a bookcase, china cabinet, or display unit, this authentic piece fits
