Description

Religious wooden statuette depicting a Franciscan monk in his habit (Saint Anthony of Padua). This statuette is made of polychrome wood and dates from the late 18th or very early 19th (1750-1850). It stands 28 cm tall. This saint carries a basket filled with bread on his left arm and holds a cup in his right hand, a symbol of a group known as the "mendicant orders." The patina of this statuette is particularly well done and gives it a real sense of presence.
