Description

Impressive Louis XV-style ceremonial console table. Made of gilded, stuccoed, and richly carved wood, with original gold leaf gilding. This console table, featuring a full-front design, displays a rich decoration of shells, volutes, flowers, and foliage, a band of lozenges, and garlands of hanging flowers that follow the curve of the table. At each corner, a shell motif. Thick top of Aleppo breccia marble with a "bec de corbin" pattern. It rests on four curved legs connected by a sinuous X-shaped brace linked by a scroll and floral elements, such as roses and acanthus leaves. This console table comes from a château in central France.
