Description

A magnificent late 19th-century English country bench, crafted from solid oak and featuring its original hand-woven cane seat. This elegant piece combines timeless English craftsmanship with a practical design and rests on its original brass casters, allowing for easy movement. The warm oak frame has developed a beautiful patina over time, while the original cane work remains a charming feature, highlighting the piece's quality and authenticity. Its simple and refined design fits equally well in both classic and contemporary interiors.
