Description

This captivating evening landscape was painted in oil on canvas by an unknown Scandinavian master at the close of the 19th century, in the era of romantic Art Nouveau. The composition transports the viewer to a secluded corner of Scandinavian nature, immersed in the solemn silence of approaching twilight. The calm, mirror-like surface of the lake reflects the fading glow of the sunset, creating a remarkable atmosphere of tranquillity. At the very edge of the water on the right stands a spreading tree with intricate silhouettes of branches, lending the scene an air of mystery. The colour palette is built upon soft brushstrokes and gentle transitions in subdued tones, imparting an airiness to the scene with the almost lyrical resonance of the evening glow. This work, imbued with the elusive tremor
