Description

Brutalist Oak Display Cabinet by Charles Dudouyt, 1940sA superb oak display cabinet with a Brutalist/Late Art Deco style, typical of French designs from the 1930s and 1940s. The front is defined by a large central glass panel showcasing the shelves (ideal for books, objects, and tableware), flanked by two solid doors adorned with embossed, striated panels. The silhouette is powerful and architecturally striking: an overhanging cornice with softened edges, generous side panels, a base with cylindrical elements, and beautiful moldings that emphasize the piece's volume.
