Description

A rare and elegant black leather travel kit, marked "Au Touriste, 36 avenue de l'Opéra, Paris." "Au Touriste, founded in 1847 by Michel Flandrin, was one of the most prestigious Parisian boutiques specializing in luxury travel goods. Located on Avenue de l'Opéra, it offered its discerning clientele toiletries, leather goods, and silverware of exceptional quality. This case, preserved in its original configuration, contains a complete set of toiletries, including four Baccarat crystal vials mounted in solid silver, a cylindrical vial, a mirror, a manicure set, brushes, combs, and various other accessories. A remarkable testament to the craftsmanship of the great case makers and manufacturers of luxury toiletries from the Belle Époque, combining elegance, functionality, and superior workmanship.
