Description

A large oil-on-canvas painting depicting the Ossau Valley in the Pyrenees, specifically in the Béarn region. The canvas measures 147 cm by 97 cm and is signed "R Valette" in the lower right corner. The composition features, in the foreground, a seated shepherd watching over his sheep in a lush, shaded meadow at the foot of a large, leafy oak tree; in the background, one can admire the majestic Ossau Valley, formed by a vast, sun-drenched plain that gives way to the Pyrenean mountains, at the center of which stands out the pointed silhouette of the iconic Pic du Midi d'Ossau. Above, the blue sky dotted with clouds casts a soft, overhead light typical of a late-summer day. Work from the early 20th century. René Valette (1874-1956) was a French painter known for his mountain landscapes and
