Description

This small Baroque frame, from the Veneto region and dating to the early 18th century, is a refined example of the craftsmanship of the period. Made of wood, it is richly carved, lacquered, and gilded--features that highlight its elegance. The sides of the frame are adorned with cherub faces and floral motifs, while a decorative dove is featured at the bottom. The cornice is embellished with a winged cherub surrounded by flowers; all these gilded elements create a harmonious contrast with the lacquered background and the carved scroll and leaf details.
