Description

A light panel created by Angelo Brotto for Esperia in the 1970s. The piece features a smoked glass frame that encloses a central composition of backlit glass pieces. The lighting effect is unique, with plays of light created by the irregular surfaces of the glass. Although in good overall condition, there are some missing pieces in the central glass sections. This lighting fixture is a distinctive example of Italian modernist design from that era, ideal for adding a touch of style to contemporary or vintage interiors.MOILIL0270043
