Description

An elegant pair of Directoire-style candlesticks, made in the mid-19th century. They can be used with two, three, or even a single candle, as they are composed of detachable elements that can be separated as desired, making these three configurations possible. The design is emblematic of the Directoire style, featuring refined simplicity and numerous subtle decorative details. The silver plating is beautiful, and they bear French hallmarks; aside from a tiny chip on one leg, they are in excellent condition.
