Description

DARS707 - This imposing carved wooden portal is distinguished by its clear classical inspiration, with fluted columns reminiscent of the Corinthian order, surmounted by capitals richly decorated with foliage motifs. The lintel is divided into several molded bands, culminating in a frieze punctuated by small geometric elements and ornamental details in the late-Neoclassical style. On either side, the columns rest on solid bases, emphasizing the structure's verticality and monumentality. A piece with a striking visual presence, ideal for spaces seeking to evoke solemnity and historical significance. 19th century. Dimensions: W 360 x H 390 x D 70 cm. Clear opening: W 206 x H 300
