Description

Large carved, gilded, and polychrome wooden stool decorated with vine tendrils - In the style of the 17th/18th centuries A large carved and gilded wooden stool resting on an elegant torso-shaped column entirely adorned with vine tendrils, leaves, and grapes finely carved in relief. The column is topped by a Corinthian-inspired capital supporting a molded square top. The piece retains its beautiful polychrome finish in blue-gray tones, enhanced by antique gilding that admirably highlights the floral decoration. This piece evokes the columns of Italian or Provençal altarpieces from the 17th and 18th centuries, where the theme of the vine--a symbol of abundance and prosperity--is particularly prominent. Highly decorative, this large pedestal will be perfectly suited for displaying a bronze, a sculpture, a large
