Description

Lidded mustard jar made of fine earthenware from the Creil and Montereau factory, bearing the mark of the Lebeuf, Milliet & Cie period, circa 1840. A design emblematic of the 19th-century fascination with the Far East. Blue "Pagode" printed design, inspired by the Far East, depicting a landscape with architecture and vegetation. An elegant piece of tableware that attests to the refinement of Creil-Montereau's productions during the Louis-Philippe period. Very good overall condition. Brown stains inside the container. Dimensions: Length: 15 cm. Width: 10 cm. Height: 10 cm.
