Description

A superb patinated terracotta piece depicting Cupid, modeled with great finesse by the sculptor H. Weigel. The work stands out for its delicate modeling, expressive lines, and meticulous attention to detail--hallmarks of the artist's work. The patina lends this piece a beautiful depth and a remarkable decorative presence, making it ideal for an interior. Period: Late 19th / Early 20th century Signature: Signed on the base by H. Weigel Material: Patinated terracotta "This terracotta sculpture reflects the renewed interest in classical statuary at the end of the 19th century. The sculptor H. Weigel follows the great academic tradition here, drawing inspiration from the elegance and purity of the lines in Greco-Roman art to immortalize the god of love, Cupid." The sculptor H. Weigel is known for his
