Description

Description: The Les Merciers Gallery is particularly proud to present a piece of absolute rarity on the collectible design market: the majestic "Oracolo" floor lamp. Designed in 1969 by the renowned Italian architect and designer Gae Aulenti, this is a historic edition manufactured by Artemide. A true architectural totem, the Oracolo is an absolute masterpiece of the Space Age movement. It stands out for its spectacular proportions: a masterful cylindrical metal base, accented by a wide perforated band, topped by an immense opaline glass globe measuring 40 cm in diameter. More than just a light fixture, it is a true work of art that sculpts the space by diffusing light that is at once textured, soft, and perfectly uniform. is an extremely rare opportunity. This floor lamp is a true time capsule from an old unsold stock (Dead Stock). It is brand new and preserved in its original cardboard packaging stamped "Artemide - Milano - Made in Italy - Oracolo." The massive opaline globe and the metal frame remain in immaculate, "factory-fresh" condition. The piece is free of any patina, scratches, or signs of age. A true gem for purists and the most discerning collectors.
