Description

Charming 18th-Century French Walnut Armchair
Newly Upholstered in Pierre Frey Fabric
A very fine 18th-century French "à la Reine" armchair in molded and carved walnut, featuring elegant proportions and refined craftsmanship. The top of the backrest is richly carved with a central shell framed by scrolls above a lozenge motif; the shoulders are adorned with delicate foliate scrolls. The armrests are finely carved with acanthus leaves and rest on shaped supports featuring additional foliage decoration. The serpentine apron features a central shell flanked by a garland of foliage, with additional shell motifs on the short sides. The armchair stands on four cabriole legs ending in scrolls and acanthus leaves, joined by a cross-stretcher centered with a carved flower. The frame is in excellent structural
