Description

Louis XVI-era (1774-1789) Mounted Hunter Officer's Saber - 18th century. Brass hilt with a flat cap, braiding, and a diamond-shaped rivet button; the long-tailed cap is decorated with line engraving. The joint arch is greatly widened near the cap and forms a right angle with the crossguard, which features curvilinear diamond-shaped flanges. Straight quillon ending in a faceted pommel. Tang entirely filigree-worked with copper wire and twisted chain link in brass wire. Blade tie made of buffalo leather. Blade with a gray, mottled patina, slightly curved with hollow sides and a flat back featuring a small dorsal groove; single-edged blade. Blackened leather scabbard with a central dorsal seam and two brass fittings; the pommel ends in a ball, and the chape is cut out with a
