Description

Roberto Rigon was one of Italy's most innovative ceramic artists in the 1960s and 1970s, particularly during his time at the Bertoncello studio. He is known for his new and modern geometric forms, adorned with thick, polychrome glazes. Here is an example of one of these unusual new forms, in which the vase's functional purpose disappears, transforming it into a sculpture in its own right. 23 cm high x 36 cm long x 8 cm thick. Very good condition. Usual signature on the base.
