Description

A pair of lightweight, elegant chairs made of dark mahogany-stained beech, with seats upholstered in burgundy velvet, curved backs, and turned legs and slats. These chairs, which feature a rather rare pattern on their backs, are attributed to Fratelli and Levaggi, Italy, circa 1960-70. Good condition: varnish slightly worn in places. Seat height: 46 cm. The chairs known as Campanino Chiavari, renowned for their lightness, elegance, and sturdiness, were created in 1807 by Giuseppe Gaetano Descalzi in Chiavari. Fratelli Levaggi is a family of artisans who have been crafting chairs in Chiavari since 1963, decline multiple models using traditional methods and materials.
