Description

Large Louis XVI-style mirror in lacquered and gilded wood, circa 1900 An impressive Louis XVI-style mantelpiece mirror, featuring an elegant frame of carved, ivory-colored lacquered wood, accented by a beaded frieze. The pediment is adorned with a rich, finely executed gilded wood garland, held in place by an imposing central bow--a composition emblematic of the decorative repertoire of the late 18th century. The mirror consists of original mercury-coated glass panels, assembled into several sections and punctuated by gilded bronze rosettes, lending the piece all the charm and authenticity of antique mirrors. With its harmonious proportions and the quality of its decoration, this mirror will add a touch of elegance above a fireplace, in an entryway, or in a living room--whether classic or
