Description

Art Nouveau-style five-light bronze chandelier / Nancy School style / 1900The frame, made of gilded bronze, features a remarkable botanical design: five long, supple, and sinuous stems rise from a lower body sculpted with broad volutes to form the various light arms. These organic, dynamic lines are particularly characteristic of the Art Nouveau aesthetic. The chandelier is topped with five molded glass tulips, featuring a granulated relief pattern that transitions from opalescent white to a delicate shade of pink along their broadly undulating rims. Their shape, reminiscent of blooming flowers, harmonizes perfectly with the naturalistic design of the frame. The upper section is also adorned with a foliage motif and retains its suspension ring. A beautiful vintage light fixture, spectacular in its
